IMSO DIRECTOR GENERAL

The new IMSO Director General, Captain Moin Ahmed, who was appointed by the IMSO Assembly at its Twenty-Third Session held in November 2014, has today taken up his new post.

Captain Ahmed has written to all IMSO Member States, Observer States and international organizations expressing his appreciation for their support and said “to serve the satellite communications world is a privilege, a pleasure and an honour which I cherish very much. I am determined to put every effort into responding to Member States, industry and others’ expectations in a manner which will ensure fairness, justice and objectivity and I assure you I will always serve well the best interests of the Organization. Let us all work together to create a better satellite communications world to match the objectives of the public services. Taking this opportunity, I would like to seek your continuous kind support and cooperation for the years to come in my new assignment from today.”
